Made for life.

At Harrows, we believe in sustainability and responsible manufacturing. Column has been designed by combining the latest technology with time-honoured craft to bring people together. It is designed with longevity in mind, with the intent of extending its useful life and, in turn, reducing waste.

Column is constructed from bio-based materials – the key materials being timber sourced from responsibly managed forests. Every detail has been carefully considered to minimise environmental impact, from the low-emission finishes to the modular components that can be easily repaired or replaced.

The result is a piece that not only stands the test of time but also reflects a deeper commitment to the planet and the people who use it.
